ALTERACETIONS

Cookie Policy

Draft for review | 12 October 2026 | Not yet approved for publication

Alteracetions Limited | Unit 20, Masons Place Business Park, Nottingham Road, Derby, DE21 2YZ | support@alteracetions.co.uk

1. What cookies are

Cookies and similar technologies store or access information on your device. They can help a website function, remember preferences, measure traffic or support advertising. The exact technologies used by alteracetions.co.uk must be verified using the live Wix configuration and a cookie audit.

2. Essential technologies

Strictly necessary cookies may support security, session management, checkout, fraud prevention and consent preferences. Where legally exempt, these may operate without consent. Their actual names, providers and lifetimes must be verified before publication.

3. Optional analytics and advertising

Analytics cookies can measure site usage; advertising cookies or pixels can track interactions for marketing. We have not confirmed whether Alteracetions uses Google Analytics, Meta Pixel, Wix analytics cookies or other third-party tracking. Do not publish a claim that any particular optional cookie is in use until confirmed. Where consent is required, optional technologies must not be set before valid consent.

4. Your choices

Where non-essential technologies are used, visitors should have a clear choice to accept or reject them, with granular controls where appropriate, and a practical way to change their choice later. A link to reopen the live Wix consent settings should be included here once configured. Browser controls may also allow users to manage or delete cookies.

5. Cookie register - completion required

Before publication, add a verified table for each cookie or similar technology: name, provider, purpose, category, first/third party, duration and whether consent is required. Obtain this information from a live cookie scan and Wix dashboard or installed app list. This draft intentionally does not invent cookie names or expiry periods.

6. Contact and changes

Questions about cookies can be sent to support@alteracetions.co.uk. We will review this policy when we change our website features or tracking providers. This is a draft pending a website audit and consent-banner verification.